BIOGRAPHY

Multimedia composer Dan Martinez creates versatile, expressive music for film, television, and video games. Trained in composition and orchestration, he has a diverse and broad range of musical influences and techniques that uniquely merge orchestral sensibilities with contemporary production techniques and styles. He draws on that deep musical knowledge to create scores that first and foremost serve the picture.

Dan approach places an emphasis on creative collaboration, working closely with producers and directors to materialize their vision of the story.

He was selected as a participant in the celebrated ASCAP Film Scoring Workshop, and received the ASCAP Foundation David Rose Award.

His recent work includes the feature film "Most Guys Are Losers" starring Andy Buckley and Mira Sorvino, additional music for "MacGyver" on CBS, and substantial contributions to the PUBG:Mobile video game score.

Dan lives and works in Los Angeles, CA.
