BIOGRAPHY

Gareth Murphy is a screen composer based in London.

Gareth has worked with Academy Award-nominated composer Patrick Doyle in the music departments on Disney's 'Artemis Fowl' and Sony Pictures' 'All Is True', both directed by Sir Kenneth Branagh. He has also worked with composer and director Sally Potter on her score for 'The Roads Not Taken'."

Recently, Gareth has worked as an orchestrator and arranger for soon to be announced Netflix comedy series and Fox Searchlight Pictures' historical biographical drama.

Gareth has worked with BAFTA on a number of occasions, writing the music for new TV scripts which have been showcased at their BAFTA Rocliffe events.

Gareth has written string arrangements for Grammy Award-winning artist Rick Springfield's latest tour. These arrangements are also featured on Springfield's 'Orchestrating My Life - Live at the Saban' DVD. In 2020 Gareth released 'After Midnight', a piece written for the Santa Barbara Symphony's 'Sundays With The Symphony' concert series.

Gareth graduated with a Masters in Composition for Screen from the Royal College of Music, where he studied as a John Barry Scholar.
